

Free Web Resources : Help Yourselves!

Ishak Yuyun Wirawati, LIBRIS

LIBRIS has been cataloguing Internet resources that support and enrich the NIE curriculum. Currently, there are more than 600 Internet resources records in the LIBRIS catalogue covering subjects such as education, psychology, language and literature, art, music, sciences and reference information. The resources can be accessed through the URLs that are embedded in the records.

Why catalogue Internet resources?

The Internet contains a lot of information which is, unfortunately, not organised and difficult to access. Using existing library techniques and procedures and creating records for retrieval through existing online catalogues will make it easier to locate and access these resources.

How to locate Internet resources

The Internet resources on ready reference materials (almanacs, atlases, biographies, dictionaries, encyclopedias, maps, etc.) can be found at <http://libris.nie.edu.sg/info/webresources.htm>.

For Internet resources on specific subjects, you can do a subject search using the WebOPAC (<http://libris.nie.edu.sg/webopac.htm>). A search on 'webpages' will retrieve all the Internet resources recorded in the LIBRIS catalogue.

Have any web sites that you would like to recommend for cataloguing? Send your comments and suggestions to ywishak@nie.edu.sg.